

“ Flow, gentle stream ! nor let the vain
 “ Thy small unsully’d stores disdain :
 “ Nor let the pensive sage repine,
 “ Whose latent course resembles thine.”

III. On a small Building in the Gothick Taste.

Dou that bathe in courtly blysse !
 O^r toyle in fortune’s giddye spheare !
 Doo not too rashly deeme amyffe
 Of him, that bydes contentid here.

Nor yet disdeigne the russet stoale,
 Whiche o’er each carelesse lymbe he flyngs :
 Nor yet deride the beechen bowle,
 An whiche he quaffs the lynpid sprynge.

Forgyve hym, if, at eve or dawne,
 Devyde of worldlye carke he stray :
 O^r, all besyde some flowerye lawne,
 He waste his inoffensib^e day.

So map he pardonne fraud and strife,
 If such in courtlye haunt he see :
 For faults there beene in busye lyfe,
 From whiche these peacefull glennes are free.
